#FridayFacts Audiologists! These healthcare scientists are to thank for services that assess and rehabilitate our hearing. And our balance too: Audiologists perform vestibular function tests, using videos or electrodes, to figure out how well our inner ear balance organs work.

By Nana Mensah

The fourth LondonHCSTN board meeting of 2019 began with a big announcement. But we'll save the best for last. First, a summary of the minutes.

London Healthcare Science Trainee Network

Welcome Event!

On Monday the NSHCS welcomed the new 1st year trainees to the STP, so next monday we're going to do the same!

Please join us at the Vaulty Towers pub (34 Lower Marsh, Lambeth, SE1 7RG) for a very unusual pub quiz from 7:30pm. We'll be there from 6pm onwards so come along and get to know your competition before we start.

STP Experience Survey

The STP experience survey is still open and will remain open until 27th September 2019.

As a reminder we use this survey to gather anonymous information about the experience of past and current trainees in their training centres. We then feed this back to the HEE Professional Lead for Healthcare Science and the information is used to inform decision making processes when deciding which Trusts and departments are suitable for hosting STP trainees.

Get Involved!

An fantastic opportunity to inspire the healthcare science workforce of the future has arisen.

We have been invited to exhibit at Worldskills UK Live 2019!
